Die deutsch-bulgarischen Wirtschaftsbeziehungen während des Zweiten Weltkrieges im Spiegel der beiderseitigen Regierungsausschüsse für Regelung der Wirtschaftsfragen. Teil I. 1939–1942

(Abstract)

With the beginning of World War Two the economic relations between Bulgarian and Germany became extremely intensive. Special bilateral commissions were established with the aim to cover the diversity of economic processes. These governmental organs had nine joint sessions and through their activities coordinated and wholly (but for the purveyances for the army) regulated the economic contacts between the two countries under the conditions of wartime economy in Europe.
